

Dada Zubaaan: The 360° Puzzle Game* for Meta Quest Available Now! Including a Free Demo!

Za-zap your way to the next level with the ultimate play: Dada Zubaaan!

[TOKYO, JAPAN – June 17, 2025]

Today Tokyo-based developer and publisher AIDIS Inc. announced the release of its new VR title, Dada Zubaaan: The 360° Puzzle Game on the Meta Store.

In this electrifying VR slide puzzle game, players race against the clock to slide prismatic panels into an electrified pathway from the start point to finish. Level by level, the pathways grow longer and the board grows larger—soon reaching an immersive 360 degrees.

About the design philosophy behind Dada Zubaaan, veteran Producer Jun Miyamoto said, “I wanted to make a game that people of any age could pick up and enjoy immediately. I’m serious about getting a million copies of the game into people’s hands, so go ahead: Pick it up, and slide the pieces into place. First, you’ll be playing for a few seconds; before you know it, the game’s a part of your daily routine. Dada Zubaaan is an electric experience that distills gaming excitement to its essentials.”

Miyamoto’s dedication to exciting, intuitive gameplay shows itself in the title’s straightforward controls, which just use one hand and one button; it also shows itself in the tightly synced visual and sound effects that set Dada Zubaaan apart.

A free demo version featuring the game’s first stage is currently available for download on the Meta Store at the link below:
